What makes us special

Lived values

The excellent properties of wood have always been the benchmark for all products from the house of ter Hürne – from the beginnings of the company more than 60 years ago until today. Wood remains our role model for smart, alternative materials for natural healthy living.

ter Hürne floors for your healthy living environment

We use a plant-based plasticizer for our luxury vinyl flooring. We obtain it from an oil also used in the food industry – soya bean oil.

Bio-based soya bean oil provides our floors with the best properties. They are soft, pleasantly elastic and unobtrusively quiet, while remaining robust and durable.

The power of the soya bean makes your luxury vinyl flooring particularly low-emission and gives you a feeling of security.

I feel how my life is becoming easier

Smart floors for your smart home

We at ter Hürne make our floors with one aim in mind: That you can lay them easily. That they are practical and comfortable for you in everyday life. And they offer you the best possible protection.

In order to make that possible, there is a great deal of intelligence in every ter Hürne floor. We coordinate everything precisely: starting with the product structure, the materials used, the connection technology right through to the sealing. This results in something that you should take for granted: a smarter floor that should make your life a bit easier.

Natural design for your well-being home

We design products for your living space. In doing this, we follow the design principle: easy to install, long-lasting in use and naturally beautiful. Our product design combines function and aesthetics.

Although there is no standard for 'beautiful', it is a principle that inspires us here at ter Hürne. Preserve what is original. Try something new. And combine the two.

LONG PLANKS

Strong room presence

A long plank visually widens rooms and makes them appear even more spacious. We emphasise the special size through the grooves, which are continuous on all sides. The contrast this achieves makes the individual planks stand out from the floorscape.
